

Arkady Belozovsky, M.S., CDI-P, ASLTA-P – is a member of the third Deaf generation of his family who grew up in Ukraine. American Sign Language (ASL) is his third language.

He received his BS in Travel Management and International Business and MS in Linguistics and Interactive Multimedia Development from Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT), and is recently hired as a first full-time ASL lecturer at Brown University in Providence, RI.

Mr. Belozovsky has taught ASL, Deaf Studies, and Russian Sign Language (RSL) for university/college credit levels for over 9 years and also has provided various workshops and lectures in local, national, and international.

For over ten years, he has experienced freelance interpreting service as a Deaf interpreter in a variety of settings and sign languages (i.e., Russian Sign Language, Gestuno and ASL) on the international, national, and local levels.

Mr. Belozovsky is married and resides with his Deaf wife and two Deaf sons in Framingham, MA.

